Weaving together poems, journal entries, anecdotes, and personal essays, the award-winning Miss G and Me shares a daughter's insights into her Jamaican mother's immigration story and familial relationships. The book invites readers and listeners to experience Jamaican, English and prairie Canadian voices, cultures, landscapes, and mindsets. Whether online or in person, audiences have been receptive to the many themes that Miss G and Me explores.

Jennifer S. Wallace is a French immersion teacher, judo sensei, writer, artist, and author. She loves teaching, singing, painting, reading, travelling, and buying too many children's books. In 2009, Jennifer wrote and published her first book, a nonfiction children's story called When He Opened His Eyes: Gordon's Story, about her firstborn. She writes articles and poems for Sister Triangle, an online women's magazine and has led writing workshops and writers' events. In 2020, the non-published manuscript of Miss G and Me: A Daughter's Memoir was awarded third place in the Saskatchewan Writers' Guild's John V. Hicks Long Manuscript Award for Creative Nonfiction. Jennifer was born and raised in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Treaty 6 Territory, and lives there with the loves of her life: John, Imogen, Isaac, and their two dogs.
